LOWELL DIRECTORY

Centennial Edition

For the year ending February, 1937

Containing

Alphabetical Section (Page 197) Gives names, occupations and addresses of men and women eighteen years old or over, also all business houses. Wives' names are listed immediately after that of the husbands; enclosed in parentheses. The names of partners in firms are given after the name of the firm. Dates of deaths during the previous year are given and, where possible, the addresses of people who have moved to other cities. Much other information is given that cannot be found elsewhere.

Business Directory (Page 869) All business houses, individuals in business for themselves, and professional men are listed without charge under the heading that best describes them. The more progressive houses, realizing that it pays to be easily found, pay a nominal charge for special listings in heavy type, under every heading where a buyer might look for them, cross-indexed to a descriptive space in the "reference section."

House and Home Owners Directory (Page 681) All Householders and Places of Business are arranged in numerical order upon their respective Streets. The Streets are arranged in alphabetical order.

A VALUABLE FEATURE:
HOMES OWNED BY OCCUPANTS INDICATED BY SYMBOL ©

(Note: this information is as given to our convassers, and is not guaranteed by us. It should be of value as an indication, but not taken as legal proof of title.)

Advertising Department (Page 81) Where more information than is possible to give under the headings is placed on file for buyer's reference. The value of this department cannot be estimated. It is an index of the best business interests of the city, and stands for them and the city in reference libraries all over the country, as well as on the desks of progressive business men. It is accessible to everybody, and the logical place to look for specific information. This probably explains why no other form of publicity is so generally endorsed by business men, as a glance at this department will show.

Honor Roll (Opp Page 10) A special feature—is a list of Business Concerns who are advertisers in this edition, who have been in business twenty-five years or more.

Street Directory (Page 33) A complete list of Streets, showing location of intersecting streets, and enabling one to tell at once between what streets a given number lies, and the quickest way to get there.

Map (Opposite) The clearest map ever made of the city, on a scale large enough to see and small enough to be handled easily.

The Home of Good Directories

COMPILING DEPARTMENT

The City Directory has become a universal necessity in looking up new prospects, in purchasing supplies, and in marketing products. Our experience of over eighty-five years—our reputation for accuracy, our large force of experienced help and our complete equipment for the work, all guarantee the best in directory compilation.

ADVERTISING DEPARTMENT

Put—"We are listed in the Directory" in all your advertising copy. Addresses are often forgotten or mislaid, though the name is remembered. The firm that is properly registered in all branches of its industry is wise. Don't forget that directory advertising supplements and rounds out all your other advertising by giving the most explicit directions how to find you.

LOWELL

THREE HUNDRED YEARS

By Frederick W. Coburn, author of "A History of Lowell and Its People" (1920)

The City of Lowell will be 100 years old in 1936. The Town of Lowell was incorporated 10 years before the place became a city—in 1826. Three hundred years ago, in 1636, the first white settlers of the present Lowell neighborhood, who occupied land on the Shawsheen river in what are now Billerica and Tewksbury, were in contact with the Indians who held all the territory that is now the City of Lowell.

Where two rivers abounding with fish came together, the Merrimack and the Concord, the Indians dwelt in the metropolis of this region long before the white men came. They were of two tribes; the Wamesits, whose wigwams were on the Concord river around the present Fort Hill, and the Pawtuckets, whose headquarters were at the falls in the Merrimack now bearing their name. Both tribes were under Passaconaway, the great chieftain of this region who embraced Christianity, and his son Wannalancit, who was a firm friend of the whites. John Eliot, the apostle to the Indians, preached Christ on what is now the South Common.

In spite of the friendliness of the Indians they suffered from the hysteria of the English settlers during King Philip's war in 1676, many of them ran away to Canada and those who were left began selling their lands to the white men soon after the war. The level tract between the rivers, which is now downtown Lowell, was bought in strips by residents of the nearby town of Chelmsford. This was known during the 18th century as the Wamesit Purchase. It consisted of farms, belonging to Chelmsford, many of whose sons fought in the French and Indian Wars and in the Revolution. The only village on the south side of the Merrimack was the hamlet of East Chelmsford at the head of the falls and opposite the village of West Dracut—in both of which, now a part of Lowell, may still be seen a few homes built before the Revolution.

After American Independence was secured things began to happen in the neighborhood where Lowell was presently to be. About 1784, merchants of Newbury, down river, got permission from the legislature to cut a canal from the Merrimack above Pawtucket falls to the Concord just above its mouth. With proper locks this canal enabled boats to pass upriver and rafts of logs to come down without being broken to pieces in the rapids. In 1792 the Massachusetts legislature authorized the construction of the Middlesex Canal from the Merrimack in what was then Chelmsford to tidewater at Charlestown. This canal was opened to navigation in 1803. At the northern end a considerable settlement grew up under the name Middlesex Village. This is now a district of Lowell. Woolen mills, meantime, were already in operation on the Concord river and its tributary, Hale's brook. The Chelmsford glass works on the Middlesex Canal imported Bohemian glass blowers and was for some years a successful enterprise. During the war of 1812 manufacture of gunpowder was started by Oliver Whipple at a factory on the Concord. These and several other enterprises were in existence before the locality was called Lowell.

After peace was declared in 1815 Americans began to be interested in the cotton manufacture, already well established in England. One who had studied the factory system abroad was Francis Cabot Lowell, of Boston, who with Patrick Tracy Jackson set up a model cotton mill at Waltham. They were already making a success of this when Lowell died. He in all probability never saw the place that was later named for him, but members of his family have been interested in it.

Lowell's surviving associates about 1820 realized that the Charles river could not develop the power they needed for an expanding industry. They looked for a more favorable location. The Kennebec in Maine was considered, but when a Newburyport man called their attention to the available water power at Pawtucket Falls, where a canal was already in existence, they became interested in this possibility. In the autumn of 1821 Thomas M. Clark, a director of the Pawtucket canal, quietly bought from the farmers a number of titles of the old Wamesit Neck Proprietorship.

The Boston capitalists who intended to make a new use of these lands had meanwhile engaged an efficient general manager for their undertaking, Kirk Boott, born in Boston of English parents, a former soldier in the Duke of Wellington's army. They incorporated in 1822 the Merrimack Manufacturing Company and at once sent Boott out to East Chelmsford to dig a lateral canal from the old Pawtucket canal and build a cotton mill close to the Merrimack. Boott met there a group of hardy Irish laborers led by Hugh Cummisky, who with picks over their shoulders walked out of a warm spring forenoon from Boston. Kirk Boott, who was a born driver, wanted them to begin work that afternoon, but they threatened to go on strike. Then, somebody whispering a word in his ear, the young manager invited the whole crowd into a restaurant for lunch, and they all came out smiling and ready to swing their picks over what is now the Merrimack canal.

By 1826 Kirk Boott was dictator of a thriving manufacturing village whose people objected to doing town business at Chelmsford Centre, four miles away. He had already brought together some of the best mechanical talent of the time. Being himself a Church of England man he arranged for building an Episcopal church modeled after one at Derby, England, at which his family had worshipped; and to St.Anne's Church, as this was consecrated, he called a young clergyman, Rev. Theodore Edson, who began a rectorship of 60 years. Many of the Irish laborers remained to be residents of the district later known as the Acre, and Boott and his supporters aided them to provide for worship after their Catholic faith. As early as 1824 application was made to the legislature to set off the new village as a separate township. This finally was granted, and on March 1, 1826, the permission became operative. Some would have liked to call the place Wamesit; Kirk Boott's own first choice was "Derby", but when he was urged to call it "Lowell," after the friend of several of his directors, he accepted this name, and Lowell it was. The first town meeting of Lowell voters took place March 2, 1826, its records kept by Samuel A. Coburn, who was the only town clerk, and the first city clerk, of Lowell. His portrait hangs in the City Clerk's office at City Hall.

The success of the Merrimack Manufacturing Company brought more corporations to Lowell: the Hamilton, incorporated, 1825; Appleton, 1828; Lowell Manufacturing Company (carpets), 1828, and others. The settlement spread over the present business district of Lowell to the east side of the Concord river (where the Memorial Auditorium now is). This was then a fine estate developed by Judge Edward Livermore who called it Belvidere. After his death in 1832 his land was divided into houselots and streets by two young real estate operators from New Hampshire, John and Thomas Nesmith, who built for themselves distinguished mansions still standing. The public school system at Lowell grew out of a disagreement between Rev. Dr. Edson, who served on the town school committee, and Kirk Boott, who did not believe in taxing the public for education. As a result of Dr. Edson's victory in town meeting the Edson, Bartlett and Mann graded schools were built. The first named, on the South Common, is still in use.

In 1830, Patrick Tracy Jackson, a Boston capitalist and friend of Kirk Boott, began to work for a railroad connecting Boston and Lowell—one of the first in the United States. With great difficulty he financed it and in the early 1830's constructed the present main line of the Boston and Maine Railroad between the two cities. He brought to a machine shop of the Locks & Canals Company, Lowell, one of the most famous of mechanical experts, Maj. George Washington Whistler, who had studied locomotive construction in England. While the road was completing, Maj. Whistler built at Lowell two engines for service on the new line. The Boston and Lowell service was successfully opened May 27, 1835.

The town of Lowell in ten years had grown big enough for incorporation as a city, and on April 1, 1836, Governor Edward Everett signed an act making it such. This was accepted by the voters on April 11 following, and Elisha Bartlett was elected the first Mayor of Lowell. The new city continued to grow rapidly during the 1840's and 1850's. The water power of the place was largely increased through the genius of James Bicheno Francis, an English-born engineer who came to Lowell as a youth with Maj. Whistler and who remained after the latter had gone elsewhere, being invited in 1842 to build for the Czar of Russia the railway connecting St.Petersburg and Moscow. Mr. Francis turned his attention from locomotive building to hydraulics and became the world's foremost specialist in water power. One of his achievements in 1845-8, was the construction of the guard locks at Pawtucket Falls, protecting the city from danger of flood, and of the Northern canal with the sightly canal walk, which was a civic attraction and which greatly increased the available power for the mills.

Lowell mill girls in 1841 began publishing a little operatives' magazine, the Offering, which was so well edited and printed that it attracted international attention. The name of one of its foremost contributors, Lucy Larcom, poet, is perpetuated in Lucy Larcom park, facing on the old Merrimack canal. A Lowell political orator in 1848 who made an impression, though nobody had then heard much about him, was a man from Illinois. His name was Abraham Lincoln.

Lowell had become a centre of anti-slavery interest, though some of its best people were opposed to policies offensive to the South; and when the Civil war finally broke out no northern city took a more active part in the war. The financing of the departure of Massachusetts troops for defence of Washington was made possible by James G. Carney, Lowell banker. The Sixth Massachusetts Regiment, composed of men from Lowell and vicinity, was attacked by rioters in Baltimore, April 19, 1861, and of four men killed, two, Addison O. Whitney and Luther C. Ladd, were citizens of Lowell. Their monument is conspicuous in Monument Square in front of the city hall. The services of Maj. Gen. Benjamin F. Butler, of Lowell, in the war that followed are known to everybody; it is not so generally known that the great "sanitary fair" organized in 1863 by Lowell women under the style of a Soldiers' Aid Association, started something which was copied throughout the North and which added greatly to the safety and morale of the men at the front.

After the Civil war Lowell prospered for many years, and its population became more and more cosmopolitan. The workers in the mills and machine shops at first were either New England Yankees, Irish, or English from Lancashire and Gloucestershire. About 1855, a few French speaking Americans from Lake Champlain settled in Lowell, and after the war came many of the Canadian French. In the early 1880's arrived a few Greeks, at first as candy and fruit merchants. About ten years later many of them began to apply for work in the mills. Some German and Austrian Hebrews were in Lowell before 1880; in 1891 came a considerable influx of Jews driven from Russia by persecution. Scandinavians, Poles, Armenians, Syrians and Portuguese and other nationalities became numerous by the end of the century. The Central Labor Union was formed in 1887. Workers speaking many languages and engaged in many lines of manufactures made up one of the most cosmopolitan of American cities—and the statistics show one of the most orderly.

In territory Lowell took in, in 1874, much of the western part of the old town of Dracut, north of the river. It already had the Centralville district, which originally was in Dracut. More of Tewksbury was added to Belvidere, and Middlesex Village was annexed from Chelmsford. In this century came the last annexation from Tewksbury.

Except for a brief strike in 1903 Lowell grew and throve at a normal rate down to the first years of the World War when a sudden rush of war orders brought thousands of newcomers to its workshops. The city became one vast munition shop. Cartridges by the million were made in the former Bigelow Carpet mills; military overcoating and other governmental textile orders were executed on a hugh scale. No city gave, for its size, better support to the Liberty Loans than Lowell; it, and the surrounding towns, sent thousands of sons into the A.E.F. For months after the Armistice the city was still a very busy workshop.

Lowell since the World War has lost a few thousands of its peak population, and some of the historic textile manufacturers have closed down, due to too many spindles in the nation, and to the competition of other nations. The former Lowell Machine Shop, which under a consolidation became the Saco-Lowell Shops, was very active about 1920, making high grade textile machinery, much of it for export to Japan and China. Since then the shops themselves have been closed, and in part torn down; the large sales of Lowell-made machinery to the orientals may have been injurious to Lowell and, some think, to the U. S. A.

Things worth seeing in Lowell are almost too numerous to mention. At the Lowell Textile Institute can be observed under one roof specimens of about all the machinery and processes that gave Lowell its start as a manufacturing centre. Among the literary and artistic landmarks are the Whistler House, 247 Worthen street, where James McNeil Whistler, internationally famous artist and wit, was born, and where the Lowell Art Association shows works of art; the stone house in Ames street where the poet Poe visited the then owners, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Richmond; the house on Gorham Street where was born William Cardinal O'Connell, and in the Cardinal O'Connell parkway, near City Hall, his sculptured likeness; the beautiful residence in Belvidere of the late General Benjamin F. Butler.

Lowell has had many historians; their works can be consulted by the interested visitor at the City Library and the adjacent rooms of the Lowell Historical Society.

LOWELL STREET DIRECTORY

Copyright, 1936, Sampson & Murdock Co., Boston, Mass.

Giving the location of the Streets, Places, Parks, Squares, etc., and showing what other streets and places run from them, or cross them, with the number at which they intersect.

From this list the location of any number on a street, or the location of any public building, can be easily ascertained; as, for instance, wishing to know at what part of Central Street No. 320 is located, you look at Central Street, and find that Appleton Street runs from 301, and Tyler Street from 340, showing that 320 Central would come on the left, between Appleton and Tyler Streets.

When a street crosses another, numbers (or ciphers) are given on both sides; but when it begins or ends at that street the number is given only on the side at which it intersects. Ciphers are used where no numbers exist.

* Indicates streets accepted.

POWER OF ADVERTISING

The City Directory is the power that generates information for the buyer that he may know who deals in the product he wishes to purchase. If your business is not classified properly, and a display advertisement arranged to describe your business, how can you expect the buyer to trade with you.

ADVERTISING is the foundation upon which successful businesses are built. You must apply this to your own particular business.

ADVERTISING is the power of an idea multiplied.

May be installed in any furnace at a very slight expense. Once installed it only remains to fill the hopper with small size anthracite coal and the automatic feeder keeps the burner supplied for several days. No trouble, dust or worry for the wife. Come home to a warm uniform temperature due to automatic thermostat control. Ashes are automatically gathered in a dust proof box as fast as coal is consumed and may be removed without creating a particle of dust. Send for circular containing full description.

Are You
Leaving A Record For The Future?

It may prove a serious matter in years to come if by any chance you should be incorrectly listed in or left out of the City Directory. Cases have occurred where the evidence of the City Directory, as to residence or occupation, has had an important bearing on the disposal of a fortune. Business men, especially, should see to it that their firm's record is absolutely correct and all changes should at once be reported.

The A-B-C of Insurance

Against Business Loss Means That You Must be listed In The Great and Only Real Buyers Guide—The City Directory—The Publication That Lists Them All.

If you are not Properly listed you are missing the opportunity that is presented to every business concern to become a stockholder in this great enterprise on a co-operative basis. The dividends are the service and low prices. It is the greatest illustration of the socialistic principle of doing business that there is in our modern society. The City Directory is the book of the people and places every individual in the city on the same basis. This gives the small business the same opportunity as the large business—a truly democratic principle and a rare one today.

Give this matter your careful attention and be listed in the Great Information Bureau of the City where it can be instantly located. It is a card index system of the city with four different ways of indexing and nothing with a name and address exists that cannot be readily found by any person who knows their A-B-C's.

How to Make This Book Serve You!

The City Directory may be used to great advantage in supplementing and rounding out your newspaper publicity. Put—"We are listed in the directory" in your copy. Tie up all your advertising to the directory with the above phrase. Then see to it that you are properly represented under all the business listings applicable to your business. The phrase will stick long after the newspaper has been mislaid and people will get in the habit of looking for your name when ready to purchase goods which you carry. Thus will the interest aroused by your newspaper display be extended and preserved for your future benefit.

in the mass seems like a dull proposition but when we have a need of some person or thing nothing interests us more than getting information about that person or thing.

This directory looks like a big book to be walked around or fallen over or put out of the way, until you need some information that it contains—then it becomes the handiest thing around the place.

Has it ever occurred to you how much information you could get from this book, if you really knew how to use it?

There is a great mass of information here, arranged in a logical way that experience has shown most easily referred to. It does take a little study to know how to make full use of it however, like anything else worth while.

A little study that opens up a new way to save time or increase accuracy is an asset to anyone. It may be you will find a lot of information you did not know was here before, that you would have spent a lot of time and trouble to find in other ways, and you will have increased your efficiency just that much.

STREET AND HOUSE DIRECTORY

Copyright, 1936, Sampson & Murdock Co., Boston, Mass.

Giving the location of Streets, Avenues, Places, Parks, &c, showing what other streets and places run from or across them, and with a list of Householders and Places of Business arranged in Numerical Order upon their respective Streets.

The Streets are arranged in alphabetical order with the location of Intersecting Streets clearly shown.

A HOME OWNERS AND TENANTS DIRECTORY—a valuable feature showing which houses are owned by the occupants. The symbol, ◎ following the name of a householder indicates that the house is owned by the person listed, or by some member of the family.

This information is as received by the canvasser. The publisher does not and cannot guarantee its correctness.

Places of Business are indicated by bold face numbers and business being given.

Numbers following names indicate floors; preceding names, rooms or suites.

*Indicates accepted streets.

Indicate streets that are partly public and partly private.

How the City Directory will help you

Some people regard the City Directory as merely a big book that cannot concern or be of any use to them, personally.

If they realized what it contains, and how it would answer many little questions that come up every day, they would use it in their personal as well as business affairs.

Well, now—doesn't it concern you? It has your name, business and address correctly listed, where your friends, looking for you, will find it.

It has this same information about your friends, and anyone else in the city you may be interested to look up.

It has complete information about the business houses of the city, telling who sells what, and where. It has detailed accounts of progressive houses, who realize they will logically be looked for in the "Selling Section."

It tells how all the streets run, giving numbers at corners; the clearest map of the City; Buildings, Government, Societies and a wealth of facts about the City that can only be appreciated by glancing at the Index.

You will be repaid for a little time spent in finding out how to use this book full of "Who and Where" information; repaid in convenience, in accuracy, and in time saved in your everyday affairs. But be sure you use the latest, as an old edition will mislead you.

PUBLISHERS

179 Lincoln Street - Boston, Mass.

This Publication Is The Product of a Member of

—thus assuring you the ultimate service that skill and care can produce in the way of City Directories or other reference media, and providing protection against fraudulent advertising schemes which operate under the name of Directories.

The following "Standards of Practice," adopted at the inception of the Association of North American Directory Publishers in 1898, and strictly adhered to over the years, is your guarantee of satisfactory Directory Service.

The publisher of a Directory should dedicate his best efforts to the cause of business uplift and social service, and to this end pledge himself:

1. To consider, first, the interest of the user of the book.

2. To subscribe to and work for truth, honesty and accuracy in all departments.

3. To avoid confusing duplication of listings, endeavoring to classify every concern under the one heading that best describes it, and to treat additional listings as advertising, to be charged for at regular rates.

4. To increase public knowledge of what Directories contain; to study public needs and make Directories to supply them; to revise and standardize methods and classifications, so that what is wanted may be most easily found, and the Directory be made to serve its fullest use as a business and social reference book and director of buyer and seller.

5. To decline any advertisement which has a tendency to mislead or which does not conform to business integrity.

6. To solicit subscriptions and advertising solely upon the merits of the publications.

7. To avoid misrepresentation by statement or inference regarding circulation, placing the test of reference publicity upon its accessibility to seekers, rather than on the number of copies sold.

8. To co-operate with approved organizations and individuals engaged in creative advertising work.

9. To avoid unfair competition.

10. To determine what is the highest and largest function of Directories in public service, and then to strive in every legitimate way to promote that function.

$100 Reward will be paid by the Association of North American Directory Publishers for the arrest and conviction of any person or persons engaged in the publishing, collecting or canvassing for any fraudulent or fake directories.
